Prince Charitable Trusts Welcomes Ajay Singh Chatha as Program Associate

We are delighted to announce that Ajay Singh Chatha has joined Prince Charitable Trusts as our new Program Associate.

Ajay brings experience in environmental justice, community engagement, grant development, and communications. Most recently, he served as Program Director of the Pilsen Environmental Rights and Reform Organization (PERRO), a Prince grantee, where he led community-based environmental justice initiatives, managed grants and partnerships, and developed communications and outreach strategies. Previously, he managed food access programs at Tufts University's New Entry Sustainable Farming Project.

As Program Associate, Ajay will support Prince's Chicago arts and environmental justice grantmaking, including our participatory grantmaking work, as well as our sports-based youth development program. He will work closely with grantee partners and funding colleagues, contribute to grant review and program development, and help advance Prince's convening and relationship-building efforts. Ajay will also play an important role in strengthening our communications, helping us better tell the stories of our grantee partners and the communities they serve.

"We are pleased to welcome Ajay to the Prince team. He brings a wonderful combination of nonprofit experience, deep commitment to community-driven work, and firsthand understanding of the grantee experience. I'm especially excited about the perspective and energy he will bring as we continue to deepen our relationships with partners, strengthen our grantmaking, and find new ways to lift up the important work happening in our communities," explained Carolyn Brunette, Executive Director.

Please join us in welcoming Ajay to Prince Charitable Trusts.
